- I. Objective: The guideline was established in line with the government policy of expanding the admission of international students, and to attract outstanding international talent to study at the University, to further promote the internationalization of the University.
- II. International Students referred to herein, shall comply with the definition as listed in Article 2 of the Regulations Regarding International Students Undertaking Studies in Taiwan, as stipulated by the Ministry of Education, and be limited to persons that hold foreign nationalities, have never held R.O.C. nationality, and as of the time of application, are not of Overseas Chinese Student status.
- III. Sources of Funding: The International Student Scholarship funds are allocated by the International Affairs Division, R&D Office, as well as the subsidies provided by the Ministry of Education.
- IV. Qualified applicants:
 1. Newly admitted international students at the University who have not received any other scholarships (excluding Overseas Chinese Students).
 2. International students enrolled at the University (excluding students that have their study suspended or extended).If applicants as described above have been awarded any scholarships from the R.O.C. Government, they shall be ineligible for this scholarship.
- V. Application Schedule and Method:
 1. Prospective Students: Application shall be made at the time of application of admission to the International Affairs Division, R&D Office.
 2. Current Students: Applicants shall prepare the application form, transcripts as well as a copy of their student ID card to the International Affairs Division, R&D Office of the University before the end of April annually.
- VI. Number of Recipients: Allocated based on the amount of funding as well as the number of applicants of the year in question.
- VII. Issuing Amount and Method:
 1. For undergraduates, NTD 4,000 to 6,000 per person per month. For post-graduates, NTD 6,000 to 8,000 per person per month.

2. The scholarship shall cover the period of September of the year of application to August the year after, covering a total of 12 months. The maximum length of time a student is entitled to receive the scholarship is four academic years for undergraduate students, two academic years for students in master programs, and four academic years for students in doctoral programs.
3. Students awarded the scholarship should, upon approval of their scholarship application, assist their department or administrative office with related work for a minimum of 72 hours, which will be referred to when applying for their scholarship for the next school year. Recipients failing the above, shall have their eligibility for future scholarship applications revoked, and shall only be permitted to complete their school leaving procedure after completing the requisite hours.
4. Should the recipient suspend/defer/terminate their study in the University, their eligibility to receive the scholarship shall be immediately revoked, and the scholarship already issued shall be returned to the University.

VIII. The University has set up an "International Student Scholarship Review Committee", in which the vice president of the University serves as chair, the Dean of R&D Office, Dean of Academic Affairs, Dean of Student Affairs, the Dean of all Colleagues, Dean of Accounting, and the Directors of the Department/Institute of the applicant are all appointed committee members, with the Director of International Affairs Division serving as committee member and executive secretary. The committee shall oversee the reviewing of scholarship applications.
